The Kogla Bear

DID you ever know that the Teddy Bear is a real live animal and not a toy stuffed with sawdust. Yes, such an animal does exist but instead of being called Teddy Bear its name is the Koala Bear.

The Koala, is a native bear of Australia and is found in parts of that continent. Due to its lovable characteristics, it is protected from harm by the Australian Commonwealth and sanctuaries have been provided for its safety. Recently, in 1938, the Koala Bear was picked to be put on the design of the 4d stamps of Australia.

OULD you ever believe that the way one parted his hair would lead to considerable controversy? Well sir, the way a certain Philippine patriot combed his hair almost brought about the recalling of a stamp issue as well as continuous arguements, and this is the reason why-

Recently the United States offered a prize to the artist who would present the best design for a new issue of Philippine stamps, showing the likeness of the Philippine patriot, Jose P. Rizal, Early in 1941, the prize winning design appeared on a new issue of centavos Philippine stamps. And. How It Did Appear, for lo and behold, the hair on Rizal's head instead of being parted on the left side, was parted on the right. As soon as the new stamps appeared on sale, complaints and letters calling attention to the error were received by the postal authorities. Many patriotic societies and stamp clubs sent in photographs of Mr. Rizal to show how he combed his hair and some requested that the new issue be recalled. "APPROVALS"

WHAT'S ON YOUR MIND?

Dear Reader:

In every issue of CRIME DOES NOT PAY this page is devoted to your opinion, ideas and suggestions. Since the conception of CRIME DOES NOT PAY we have been guided by two ideals—first, the eradication of crime, and second, to give credit to the fearless detectives and officers of the law who daily risk their lives that you and we may live in a more lawful society.

CHARLES BIRO and BOB WOOD, Editors

I would like to congratulate you on your fine magazine CRIME DOES NOT PAY. The boys here in the U. S. Navy Hospital think it's tops, and they look forward to each issue.

Patrick L. Wagner, CS1 U.S.N. Hospital Ward 119 St. Albans 12, L. I., N. Y.

When boys enter their teens, they usually are very particular about the magazines they read. Our club of teen-agers recently took a vote to determine which magazine was the most popular, and CRIME DOES NOT PAY was unanimously chosen.

Ken Kames 41 Perkins St. Winthrop, Mass.

At present I am serving a two-year prison term. Unfortunately, I learned too late that crime doesn't pay, but I'm really convinced that CRIME DOES NOT PAY serves as a wonderful lesson to others in prison who are still thinking about committing crimes again when they are free.

W. M. L. Parchman, Miss.

I have been reading your comics for three years now, whenever I can get them. I must say that if I were fortunate enough to live in the United States, I know I would have a regular supply of all your comics every month, especially CRIME DOES NOT PAY

Francis Norris 35, Eldon Grove Liverpool 3, Lancashire, England

All my friends avidly read CRIME DOES NOT PAY because it teaches us right from wrong in a manner we can easily understand. My mother and father think the book is swell, and encourage me to read it.

Angela Labianca 103-69 103 St. Ozone Park, N. Y. CRIME DOES NOT PAY rates high with all the students at school. Our teacher looked through an issue one day, and then recommended it for old and young alike. He said that it taught a lesson no one could easily forget.

Sara Kattan 7118 Bay Parkway Brooklyn, N. Y.

If prizes were given out for the best magazine published, I'm sure that CRIME DOES NOT PAY would carry off top honors. This book has helped to put many uncertain boys and girls on the right track, for it demonstrates so vividly that even the smartest criminals are always cought in the end.

Dorothy Ervin New Salem, III.

A few months ago some fellows in my neighborhood were arrested for stealing. They had tried to talk me into going along with them, and I then realized that if reading CRIME DOES NOT PAY had not changed my mind, I might have been arrested, too. Your magazine does excellent work in proving the futility of crime.

> T. T. Paterson, N. J.

Congratulations are in order for you for the very interesting and true-to-life stories published in CRIME DOES NOT PAY. It's a very valuable preventive in curbing juvenile delinguency.

Dolly Chasse 23 Coolidge Ave. Caribou, Me.

I am glad to say that I enjoy all of your books, including CRIME DOES NOT PAY. The combination of Gleason, Biro and Wood is a hard one to match. You deserve much praise for your work in illustrating that a lawful life is the best.

"A BOY occupied in good wholesome sports competition is not an idle boy, and hence is much less likely to get into trouble,"

These words were spoken by Chief Harry A. Jenkins, of Union City, New Jersey, before the members of the International Chiefs of Police Association. Chief Jenkins was well qualified to speak about youth activities, as the work which he instigated and carried out with the youth of Union City has set a fine example for every city in the United States.

Chief Jenkins' greatest interest in life has been, and always will be, young people. For the forty years he has served on the police department he has worked to develop a youth program that will effectively curb juvenile delinquency.

"Today we have worked out a planned activity schedule that is doing the sort of job I want to see done. Our program is no better than that of many other cities in the country," Chief Jenkins modestly states, "but we have seen definite results. Young people have a great deal of energy. This energy can either be used profitably or can be allowed to waste away. The latter can mean that the youngster will turn to destructive pursuits to utilize his energy. When they are active in sports, youngsters learn the clean way of life and the elements of good sportsmanship which are so essential for good citizenship."

The Union City youth program works with every young person in town. Everyone is urged to participate, and almost all of them do. As a consequence, juvenile delinquency has been kept at a minimum, and the youth of Union City are growing up in a clean, wholesome environment. The Union City civic leaders all realize the benefits of Chief Jenkins program, and have cooperated with him to the fullest extent by setting aside enough funds to supply the young people with excellent equipment.

Chief Jenkins entered the police department of West Hoboken in 1910 as a patrolman. As a youngster he had always wanted to be a police officer, and he was determined to become a chief. It took a great deal of hard work and tremendous ability, but in 1935 Harry A. Jenkins was promoted to Chief of Police. Today, his force is composed of 120 men who are responsible for the 60,000 people residing in Union City.

Although a great deal of Chief Jenkins' time has been spent working with young people, he is also directly responsible for the solution of one of the most prominent cases in the history of New Jersey.

A few years ago, silk thieves were extremely active in New Jersey. These criminals broke into mills and stole truckloads of silks costing many thousands of dollars. Early one morning two Union City policemen attempted to stop a truck that they suspected of carrying stolen silk. One of the police officers was killed, and the other severely wounded. "When I was awakened and told of the murder, I vowed that every criminal concerned would be caught."

Chief Jenkins declared. "The police officer killed was one of my closest friends.

, "Our first break in the case came about two months later. We picked up a man who was suspected of dealing with stolen goods, and took him down to headquarters for questioning. The man seemed unnecessarily nervous and jittery, and before we could question him at all, he confessed that he was the driver of the truck that had been used in the killing of Sgt. Knight. This was the break I was waiting for."

The capture of the other five criminals took more than two years, but Chief Jenkins was true to his word. Every criminal involved in the murder was arrested.

"The capture of these criminals was difficult, and often dangerous," the Chief continued. "I wanted to be sure that once they were caught I would have enough conclusive evidence to guarantee their conviction. The assembling of sufficient evidence was equally as difficult. After the murder, the six criminals had split up, making our job just a little more difficult. About four months after the break, I received a phone call from a police officer in Pennsylvania, reporting that one of the suspects might be working in his town.

"I took a quick trip down there, but the man in question was completely innocent. I followed up twenty other similar calls in every part of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, but they all turned out to be false leads. The first of the remaining five criminals was caught in upper New York State. I went there to follow up on a tip that looked good, and for the first time it paid off. He was working in a grocery store, and evidently became suspicious when we arrived. He immediately went home and packed. I caught him just as he was leaving his room. He couldn't even put up a fight, He was hand-cuffed before he could reach for his gun."

The second of the five criminals almost cost Chief lenkins his life.

"The first murderer we caught gave us a lead to the next. He was hiding out in Pennsylvania in a little shack in the woods. I checked on his movements for a few days, and discovered that he rarely left his house. Groceries were delivered by a boy from town, and were handed through a partially-closed door. I decided to take the place of the delivery boy and tried to gain entrance to his shack. I stationed three policemen a few hundred yards from the house and approached the shack, a bag of groceries covering a gun that was in my hand. I knocked on the door, and it was partly opened. A gruff voice from within growled, 'What d'ya want?' 'Groceries, sir,' I answered. He shouted out, 'How come the regular boy ain't here?' Before I could answer, the door was slammed in my face.

"I knocked again and was told to go away. I wanted to gain entrance as peacefully as possible, so I tried to sneak around the back towards a window. Just as I neared one, a shot rang out over my head. The murderer knew I was a police officer. Fortunately his shot missed, or I wouldn't be able to tell you this story!

"As soon as he shot at me, my men opened fire and moved in to capture him. I kept down and edged my way towards a back window. Evidently he figured I was dead. By this time, there was a good deal of firing going on. My men were purposely shooting high in order to avoid hitting me and gradually I neared the back window. When I reached it, I looked in and saw the criminal firing out the other side of the house, his back towards me. His arrest was relatively simple when he realized that he would be killed if he moved at all."

The last of the quintet of murderers finally was traced down and arrested two years later.

Chief Jenkins' patience and hard work had paid off.

"The interesting thing about this case is that I am absolutely convinced that if these six murderers had received adequate outlet for their energy as youths, they would never have beguntheir criminal way of life. It is extremely important that we never forget this fact, because crimes like this should never have taken place."
